

1. I used XAMPP to host the web server but you can use any web server with php built into it.
2. Once the web server is pulled up you just need the files then type the local host into the search bar. For me it looked like this: "localhost/twitter/login.php".
3. This should pull up the login page and from there you are free to do anything on the website.